Reference Jp 49-122292 submitted 3/28/05 shows an led with an encapsulation of phosphor material, however, the phosphor material does not appear to have a substantially constant thickness over the led as the figures and method of making appear to show that the phosphor takes the shape of the container rather than the shape of the led.

Reference Jp 52-009334 appears to have no relevancy to the claimed invention.
